GENERAL INTRODUCTION

This November 2008 edition of the Indiana Department of Education's State Approved Course Titles and Descriptions has undergone extensive revision in order to improve clarity and ease of use.

Changes include:

- A new Journalism course description and the allowance, in certain circumstances, for two credits of Journalism to count as two credits of the General Diploma
- Comparative Government and Politics, AP, no longer fulfills two credits of the Government requirement for graduation.
- The addition of a course description for Community Service in the Multidisciplinary course titles and descriptions section.
- Minor word changes in Advanced Placement course descriptions and other courses.

We welcome your recommendations and corrections.

Course descriptions provide brief statements of the content of kindergarten, elementary, middle level, and high school courses. These descriptions are intended to assist schools in communicating, in a broad context, the content and Academic Standards of Indiana state approved course titles.

Course descriptions also serve as category descriptions for the state textbook adoption process. Code numbers listed for each course description should be used when reporting courses on Indiana Department of Education documents.

Instructional decisions related to curriculum selection and development, implementation, and assessment are left to local school corporations. In fact, Indiana schools may explore, develop, and implement activities and programs that go beyond these descriptions as they strive to prepare their students for life in an ever-changing society. Indiana State Board of Education rules and the school improvement plan required by Public Law 221 provide avenues for gaining approval of well-planned, nonstandard programs and courses. School corporations may apply for a non-standard course waiver if the course or program is not listed in this document.

Please note these other important details:

- The course descriptions in this document are based upon State Board approved course titles.
- Course descriptions provide guidance for Indiana schools as they develop instructional strategies, classroom resources, and revise the descriptions to meet local needs. In order to meet minimum graduation requirements, the expectations of Core 40, and the requirements of the Academic Honors and Technical Honors diplomas, course descriptions must be consistent with the Academic Standards for each course.
- The high school courses described in this manual, along with approved non-standard courses, are the only courses that may be offered for high school credit to meet the graduation requirements established by the Indiana State Board of Education.
- The maximum number of credits that may be granted for each course is listed in the course description bullets. Generally, one credit is awarded per semester except as noted. Course description bullets identify those courses in which students may receive credit for successive semesters of instruction.

- Minimum and recommended prerequisites are listed for some courses. Local schools and districts may require additional prerequisites.
- Course abbreviations are suggested only and generally contain 10-12 characters.
- Credit, as defined by State Board rule, must consist of a minimum of two hundred fifty (250) minutes of instruction per week for one (1) semester for a school operating on a traditional schedule; a minimum of eighty-five (85) minutes of instruction per class period, exclusive of passing time, for a school operating on a block schedule; or a minimum of seventy (70) minutes of instruction per class period, exclusive of passing time, for a school trimester schedule.
- A laboratory course, identified by (L) in these course descriptions, is one in which a “minimum of twenty-five percent (25%) of the total instructional time is devoted to laboratory activities. Laboratory activities are those activities in which the pupil personally uses appropriate procedures and equipment in accomplishing that learning task.”
- Schools may designate a course as “Honors” when the course content is significantly more rigorous than the state approved course. Honors-level courses must be standards-based, have defined criteria for student admission to the course as well as clear expectations of student outcomes, and include a culminating honors project that reflects understanding of the Honors course content. The course description should reflect the ‘honors’ nature of the course and course titles should include an “H” or the word “Honors” in the title.
- Elementary and middle school (Grades K-8) course descriptions in the areas of Fine Arts, World Language, Health, Language Arts, and Physical Education are defined by grade clusters rather than by grade level, such as, K-3, 4-6, 6, 7, and 8 or 7 and 8. It should be noted that the kindergarten curriculum in all subject areas must include developmentally appropriate activities in the areas of language experiences, creative experiences, personal growth experiences, social living experiences, environmental and science experiences, and mathematical experiences. These experiences should be integrated, into the various subject areas, across the curriculum.
- The Indiana State Board of Education no longer restricts “credit” to course work completed in Grades 9 through 12. Students who complete courses before entering Grade 9 may earn credit for those courses if each course is equivalent to its high school counterpart. Local policies and procedures should be developed to govern credit for high school courses taught below grade nine. Multiple credits may not be awarded for the same course unless the course description permits multiple credits to be awarded.
- Course titles and descriptions within Cooperative Education and International Baccalaureate subject areas may also appear under other subject areas where appropriate.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION

Academic Content Standards are available at:

Teacher Requirements are available at:

Introduction

Agricultural Education is an active part of the curriculum for many high schools in Indiana. This program area combines the home, the school, and the community as the means of education in agriculture. The courses provide students with a solid foundation of academic knowledge and ample opportunities to apply this knowledge through classroom activities, laboratory experiments and project applications, supervised agricultural experiences, and the FFA.

The vision and mission of Agricultural Education is: that all people value and understand the vital role of agriculture, food, fiber, and natural resource systems in advancing personal and global well-being; and that students are prepared for successful careers and a lifetime of informed choices in agriculture.

The goals for Agricultural Science and Business students focus on providing learning experiences that will allow them to:

- Demonstrate desirable work ethics and work habits.
- Apply the basic agricultural competencies and the basic background knowledge in agriculture and related occupations.
- Analyze entrepreneurial, business, and management skills needed by students preparing to enter agriculture and related occupations.
- Expand leadership and participatory skills necessary for the development of productive and contributing citizens in our democratic society.
- Gain effective social and interpersonal communication skills.
- Be aware of career opportunities in agriculture and set career objectives.
- Acquire job-seeking, employability, and job-retention skills.
- Advance in a career through a program of continuing education and life-long learning.
- Apply the basic learning skills in reading, writing, thinking, mathematics, communicating, listening, and studying.
- Recognize the interaction of agriculture with governments and economic systems at the local, state, national, and international levels.
- Recognize how new technologies impact agriculture and how agriculture impacts the environment.

It is important to understand and reaffirm that career-technical experiences do not preclude students from going on to higher education; in fact participation actually enhances the opportunity. A growing number of students are combining both college preparation and work-place experiences in their high school preparation. Agricultural Science and Business and the FFA programs have a long history of successfully preparing students for entry level careers and further education and training in the science, business and technology of agriculture. The programs combine classroom instruction and hands-on career focused learning to develop students' potential for premier leadership, personal growth, and career success.

FFA

The FFA is the career and technical education student organization that is an integral part of the instruction and operation of a total agricultural education program. As an intra-curricular organization and essential component of the total program, the local agricultural education teacher(s) serve as the FFA chapter advisors. The many activities of the FFA parallel the methodology of the instructional program and are directly related to the occupational goals and objectives. As an integral part of the instructional program, district and state level FFA activities provide students opportunities to demonstrate their proficiency in the knowledge, skills, and attitudes they have acquired through the agricultural science and agricultural business total program. Agricultural education students demonstrating a high degree of competence in state level FFA activities are highly encouraged to represent their local communities, districts, and state by participating in national FFA activities.

Instructional activities of the FFA require participation of the agricultural science and agriculture business education students as an integral part of an agricultural education course of instruction and, therefore, may be considered an appropriate use and amount of the allotted instructional time.

Indiana Young Farmers' Association (IYFA)

The Indiana Young Farmers' Association was founded in 1962 and is dedicated to furthering the educational, social, and personal opportunities of all individuals interested or involved in the agricultural industry. It acts as an avenue for continuous educational experiences for adults, so that they can take full advantage of the possibilities available in the world of agriculture. IYFA supports the needs of agricultural-based, rural communities by providing worthwhile community services, effective leadership training, and wholesome social and recreational activities for the entire family through involvement in various local, state and national activities. It is the mission of the Young Farmer program to provide the opportunity to agriculturists to enter the industry as well as upgrade the skills needed to be leaders in their chosen occupation. Agriculture has become one of the most intense and technologically advanced industries in the world.

Introduction

Today's business world demands that students leave our schools prepared to meet the needs of employers and colleges. Many people—parents, students, legislators, and even other educators—believe that Career Technical Education: Business & Information Technology programs are only for students who expect to pursue a career in business. In reality, however, these programs provide a foundation for success for all students, regardless of their ultimate goals in life. Business competencies are required in all professions, not only technical skills but also an understanding of business operations and the social contexts of employment settings that determine how specific skills are applied.

Great strides have been made in the preparation of students for the workplace and post-secondary activities. Career Technical Education: Business & Information Technology programs have changed dramatically to meet the needs of business today. Training has evolved from primarily clerical/secretarial training to the development of many related skills. Business now expects that persons understand the basic concepts utilized in all positions/professions. Increasingly, more management personnel are responsible for many of the tasks once assumed by a receptionist or secretary, while decision making/problem solving is necessary at all levels. Career Technical Education: Business & Information Technology programs are intended to provide students with situations which will allow them to experience those skills needed to succeed in the career and/or educational endeavors they pursue. Graduates of these programs should be prepared to understand the demands of others, to analyze rapidly changing events, and to formulate responsive, rational, and proactive approaches to decision making.

Introduction

Business and industry surveys indicate that economic survival in the 21st century will demand that students know and understand both fundamental and technical concepts of business as well as possess the ability to execute these concepts in nearly any setting. All persons regardless of age, gender, and career aspirations, can benefit from participating in business education.

Today's global society challenges the talents and imaginations of Indiana's diverse student population. Like never before, they face a competitive environment that demands creative, innovative, market-driven solutions to new problems and new opportunities. Graduates of secondary and post-secondary schools must be prepared to understand the needs and demands of others, to analyze rapidly changing events, and to formulate responsive, rational, and proactive approaches to decision making.

Looking to the future and adjusting and adapting as innovations emerge, the business education curriculum has changed dramatically over the years and now parallels the practices being implemented in the business world both at home and abroad. As the explosion of technology began impacting businesses in an unprecedented manner, business education quickly adjusted the curriculum to follow suit. When American businesses began to expand their frontiers to include global transactions, business education began incorporating international content into the curriculum. Business education has never been a static, stationary discipline; rather, it is an emerging, expanding, and challenging field.

The mission of Business, Marketing, and Information Technology Education in Indiana is to work cooperatively with the business community to prepare all individuals to live and work as productive citizens in a changing global society by providing essential business experiences, education, and training. These experiences should actively engage students using instructional strategies that rely on the use of technology and practices that reflect current and emerging business procedures.

Today's men and women have unlimited career opportunities. The greater freedom of occupational choice for all individuals is having a marked effect on the Business, Marketing, and Information Technology Education curriculum. Few areas have changed curriculum, technology, directions, and equipment more than the Business, Marketing, and Information Technology Education area. In keeping pace with the challenges of a new frontier in business, great strides have been made in the development of a curriculum that will meet and challenge the needs of our diverse population as we continue to adapt to changes in the 21st Century.

Middle School Course Title & Description

BUSINESS AND INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY MIDDLE SCHOOL

Grades 6-8 (BUS IT ML)

0494

The Indiana Business and Information Technology Middle School Curriculum provides concepts and applications that facilitate the development of competencies required for success in all academic areas and in real-world contexts. This curriculum relates closely to understandings and competencies students will need as their world expands and as they develop career interests. The four broad areas included in this curriculum are technology, career exploration, personal finance/economics, and entrepreneurship. The performance expectations and instructional strategies for each area provide many opportunities to engage students in learning and applying technology as a tool. This approach is in keeping with the NETS (National Educational Technology Standards) approach, which places heavy emphasis on integrating technology into the curriculum. The No Child Left Behind (NCLB) legislation mandates that students reach technological proficiency by the completion of the eighth grade.

Each of the four curriculum areas is described below. The specific topics included, which can vary in length, provide opportunities for students to explore curriculum areas and develop knowledge and skills needed in conjunction with other middle school curriculum areas. Student achievement of the technology standards will allow teachers in other content areas to focus on the application of these competencies in meeting the standards specific to their academic areas. These four curriculum areas provide a basis on which students can make decisions regarding their future educational and employment endeavors, as well as prepare them to conduct personal business activities.

It is imperative to understand that this entire middle school curriculum (Technology, Career Exploration, Personal Finance/Economics, and Entrepreneurship) cannot be attained in just one exploration or one rotation class in a semester, trimester, or block program of studies. It is a sequential and developmental program of study. Students should progress on the basis of the number of weeks available for business content instruction in their middle school curriculum. The courses, Career Planning and Success Skills and Digital Communications Tools, may be taught in the Indiana Business and Information Technology Middle School Curriculum. If the standards and time requirements for these courses are met, students may receive high school credit.

Business and Information Technology Middle School Curriculum Areas

Technology

In the Technology area, students will learn basic functions of computer systems, touch keyboarding, several other input methods, and will explore various software packages. The overall objective in this curriculum area is to enable students to meet the No Child Left Behind legislation that requires technological literacy for all students by the completion of grade 8. The National Educational Technology Standards (NETS) developed by the International Society for Technology Education (ISTE) include six technology foundation standards for students. These six standards were used by the North Central Regional Educational Laboratory (NCREL) to develop grade-level proficiencies for student technological literacy. An adaptation of these proficiencies was used for the performance expectations in the Technology curriculum area.

Career Exploration

In the Career Exploration area, students will explore their interests, identify the types of work they do well, and determine what they want and expect for their future. They will become acquainted with the array of careers available and explore educational and personal requirements for various career clusters. This awareness is important because frequent career changes are common in the 21st Century. New career fields, job clusters, and expansion of student awareness of career possibilities are emphasized. The National Business Education Association (NBEA) standards were used to develop performance expectations in the career exploration curriculum area.

Personal Finance/Economics

Personal Finance/Economics topics will help students develop knowledge and skills for personal financial management. The problem-solving approach used is fundamental to students developing life skills in the areas of income and money management, spending and credit, and saving and investing. The NBEA standards (www.nbea.org) and the Jump$tart (www.jumpstart.org) standards were used to develop performance expectations in the personal finance/economics curriculum area. In addition, appropriate middle school skills were selected from the Networks Personal Financial Literacy Skills list developed by the Networks Financial Institute (www.networksfinancialinstitute.org). Resources listed include programs conducted by Entrepreneurship Investigation, Junior Achievement, and Business & Professional Women that give students authentic personal finance experiences.

Entrepreneurship

In the Entrepreneurship area, students will learn about business ownership, management, including entrepreneurship. The performance expectations for this area were selected from the NBEA standards and the Entrepreneurship Investigation curriculum. COOPERATIVE EDUCATION

Introduction

Cooperative education is a unique educational strategy that combines on-the-job learning experiences with related classroom instruction in a career cluster/pathway directly related to a student's academic preparation and career objectives. Pursuant to changes adopted in 2005, the on-the-job experiences and related instruction are no longer separate courses but are combined into a single course.

The philosophy of cooperative education recognizes that classroom learning provides only part of the skills and knowledge students will need to succeed in their professions or career clusters/pathways. By creating opportunities to learn in the workplace, schools can help students develop and refine occupational competencies (attitudes, skills, and knowledge) needed to enter and succeed in a profession or career cluster/pathway, adjust to the employment environment, and advance in occupations of their choices.

The fundamental purpose of cooperative education is to provide students with opportunities to learn under real-work conditions. While participating in cooperative work experiences, students are actual employees of the hiring organization. These experiences must be related to student academic and career cluster/pathway goals. Ideally, students' work assignments and areas of responsibility should broaden as they gain experience on the job and increased responsibilities should occur as further education and training are attained.

A student training plan and a training agreement are required. The formal training plan for the cooperative education experience must be jointly developed by the student, parent, teacher, and employer and set standards for the specific career cluster/pathway the student pursues. The plan must specify attitudes, skills, and knowledge that will be achieved and specifics of how they will be developed and reinforced through the on-the-job experience. Once the plan has been developed, a training agreement is written specifying the responsibilities of all parties involved. At the work site, students are placed under the direct supervision of experienced employees, called "training supervisors" who serve as the on-the-job trainers in accordance with the training plans and assist in evaluating the student's job performance.

A required component of the cooperative education program is classroom-based instruction that complements the work site experience. Related instruction incorporating activities connected to a student's career cluster/pathway objectives and workplace experiences must be provided concurrently with the workplace learning experience. The content for classroom instruction is derived from an analysis of standards to be achieved and competencies needed by individuals engaged in the specific and immediate requirements of the jobs in which students are receiving training. Content selected for classroom activities should help students meet the requirements of their career cluster/pathway goals.

The cooperative education program is a joint effort between the school and community. Program success depends upon mutual support. Advisory committees composed of business, industry, and/or labor partners assist in determining general program operating policies and procedures, participate in curriculum review and revision, and assist in promoting the program in the community.

Cooperative education programs must meet the following requirements:

- Students shall be employed an average of not less than fifteen (15) hours per week during the school year or a total of 540 hours over two semesters.
- Students earn credits for the related instruction portion of the class according to the state's definition of a credit. One credit equates to 250 minutes of instruction per week for one semester, and two credits equates to 250 minutes of instruction per week for the school year. Any deviation from the Indiana Administrative Code requires a waiver from the Indiana Department of Education.
- Student employment shall comply with all state and federal laws pertaining to employment of youth, including minimum wage regulations.
- Safety is taught as an integral part of the instructional program, both in the related instruction and at the training site.
- Students shall be allowed time from the daily school schedule to work at the participating employers' places of business.
- Grades and credits for related instruction and on-the-job training experiences are reflected under one course title for a total of six credits for the year.
- The teacher/coordinator shall have time assigned to supervise students and coordinate with work site personnel during the same time students are released for on-the-job training.
- Properly planned and organized student activities, coordinated with work-based learning experiences, supplement and enhance the cooperative education program. Therefore, participation in career and technical student organizations is an integral part of these programs. Leadership and career oriented activities of student organizations enhance students' occupational information and technical knowledge, build self-esteem, and provide students with solid job-seeking strategies and job success skills.

More specific details about cooperative education programs may be found in the Guidelines and Procedures for Cooperative Education manual located at:

ICE - INTERDISCIPLINARY COOPERATIVE EDUCATION
(Including Related Instruction and On-The-Job Training)

5902

(ICE)

CIP Code: (Based on Student's Career Pathway)

Interdisciplinary Cooperative Education (ICE) spans all career and technical education program areas through an interdisciplinary approach to training for employment. This approach is especially valuable in enriching the small school's career and technical education program where a traditional cooperative program of clustered occupations cannot be identified because of varied student interest and diverse training stations. Time allocations are a minimum of fifteen hours per week of work-based learning and approximately five hours per week of school-based instruction. The following two components must be included as part of the Interdisciplinary Cooperative Education course.

Related Instruction, that is classroom based, shall be organized and planned around the activities associated with the student's individual job and career objectives in a career cluster area; and shall be taught during the same semesters as the student is receiving on-the-job training. The concepts, skills, and attitudes basic to occupational competence are to be taught in school and are to be applied and tested on the job. The sequence of related instructional topics in school shall be continuously correlated with the student's job activities. Because each student's on-the-job activities will vary according to the types of occupations in which they have been placed, part of the related instructional time needs to be individualized in such ways as: (a) using group instruction, but individualizing the assignment so that the learning is applied to each student's own work experience, and (b) using individual study assignments such as projects, job study guides, and individual reading assignments.

For a student to become occupationally competent and therefore employable, the related instruction should cover in varying proportions: (a) general occupational competencies, (b) specific occupational competencies, and (c) specific job competencies.

On-the-Job Training is the actual work experience in an occupation in any one of the Indiana career clusters that relates directly to the student's career objectives. On-the-job, the student shall have the opportunity to apply the concepts, skills, and attitudes learned during Related Instruction, as well as the skills and knowledge that have been learned in other courses. The student shall be placed on-the-job under the direct supervision of experienced employees who serve as on-the-job trainers/supervisors in accordance with pre-determined training plans and agreements and who assist in evaluating the student's job performance.

- Recommended Grade Level: 12
- Required Prerequisite: A minimum of 4 credits in a logical sequence of courses from program areas related to the student's career pathway
- Credits: Grades and credits for related instruction and on-the-job training experiences are reflected under one course title for a total of six credits for the year. If an articulation or dual-credit agreement is in effect, the student may receive credit from a post-secondary institution.
- Counts as a Directed Elective or Elective for the General, Core 40, Core 40 with Academic Honors and Core 40 with Technical Honors diplomas
- A Career Academic Sequence, Career-Technical program, or Flex Credit course
- Course content standards and performance expectations and Indiana Academic Standards integrated at:
<http://www.doe.in.gov/octe/bme/curriculum/CooperativeEducation.htm>
- Teacher Requirements: A vocationally licensed teacher with co-operative emphasis must teach this course, <http://www.doe.in.gov/dps/licensing/assignmentcode>
- Funding: State Additional Pupil Count (APC) vocational funding available and must be taught by a vocationally licensed teacher per assignment code, <http://www.doe.in.gov/octe/>

- Career Clusters: A recommended component for career pathways in all Indiana career clusters

TRADE & INDUSTRIAL COOPERATIVE TRAINING

(Including Related Instruction and On-The-Job Training)

5892

CIP Code: (Based on Student's Career Pathway)

Trade and Industrial Cooperative Training (formerly ICT) is defined as instruction planned to develop occupational skills, safety practices, technical knowledge, and related occupational information for the purpose of preparing persons for initial employment in industrial occupations. Time allocations are a minimum of fifteen hours per week of work-based learning and approximately five hours per week of school-based instruction. The following two components must be included as part of the Trade and Industrial Cooperative Training method of instruction.

Related Instruction that is classroom-based instruction should be organized and planned around the activities associated with both the students' individual jobs and the students' career objectives in industrial occupations. It is to be taught during the same semesters as the students are receiving on-the-job training. The concepts, skills, and attitudes basic to occupational competence are to be taught as principles in school and are to be applied and tested on the job. The sequence of related instructional topics in school should be continuously correlated with the sequence of the students' job activities. Because the students' on-the-job activities will vary according to the types of industrial occupations in which they have been placed, part of the related instructional time needs to be individualized, in such ways as: (a) using group instruction, but individualizing the assignment so that the learning is applied to the students' own jobs, and (b) using individual study assignments such as projects, job study guides, and individual reading assignments. For the students to become occupationally competent and therefore employable, the related instruction should cover, in varying proportions: (a) general occupational content standards, (b) specific occupational content standards, and (c) specific job content standards.

On-the-Job Training is actual work experience in industrial occupations that is related to the students' career objectives. During this training, the students should have the opportunity to apply the concepts, skills, and attitudes taught as principles in the Related Instruction class, as well as the skills and knowledge that have been learned in other courses. The students are to be placed on-the-job under the direct supervision of experienced employees who serve as the on-the-job trainers in accordance with pre-determined training plans and agreements and assist in evaluating the students' job performance.

- Recommended Grade Level: 12
- Required Prerequisite: At least 4 credits in a logical sequence of courses in the student's trade and industrial career pathway
- Credits: Grades and credits for related instruction and on-the-job training experiences are reflected under one course title for a total of six credits for the year. If an articulation

Introduction

A balance of reading, writing, listening, speaking, grammar, literature, and media studies are the most important academic functions in every area of learning—not just as individual subject areas. Reading and language arts is not just something we should do primarily to be used to develop a competent and competitive work force but, further, to connect ourselves more fully with others in our society and the world. Teachers, then, create a sense of community within the classroom as they share this knowledge and help students to understand all aspects of reading and the language arts, including the ability to think critically, and then act on this knowledge that empowers both teachers and students to expand beyond the classroom into the larger societal community.

The goal of the study of literature is to provide students with frequent and continual opportunities to: (1) learn and apply essential skills in reading and writing; (2) read widely to build a better understanding of various types of texts, genres, and cultures of our country and those in other parts of the world; (3) read well; (4) acquire new information that will assist in responding to the needs of the workplace and society as a whole; and (5) make reading a lifelong pursuit. Literature courses provide students with opportunities to respond to literature critically, reflectively, and imaginatively both in writing and speaking and to develop concepts and strategies for making independent critical evaluations of literature. These types of courses enhance students' awareness of various cultures and develop a sense of identity. Literature courses include reading for pleasure and expose students to reading materials available in school media centers and public libraries.

The goal of composition is to provide students with frequent and continual opportunities to learn and apply essential skills in writing, using a process that includes: (1) prewriting, (2) drafting, (3) revising, (4) editing, and (5) producing a final, corrected product. Strategies should include evaluating and responding to the writing of others. In addition to instruction in creating clear, coherent, and organized paragraphs and multi-paragraph essays for a variety of audiences and purposes, the courses teach strategies for collecting and transforming data for use in writing as well as teach criteria to use in the evaluation and revision of various types of writing. Instruction in grammar, usage, and mechanics is integrated with writing instruction so that students develop a common language for discussion. All writing in its final publication form follows accepted conventions of language, style, mechanics, and format.

The State Board of Education requires eight credits in the English/language arts area for graduation from Indiana high schools. All courses should be based on Indiana's Academic Standards for English/Language Arts. The courses that meet Indiana Core 40 requirements should also meet state academic standards. A course that primarily emphasizes the completion of: (1) forms, (2) letter writing, (3) worksheets, and (4) skill-and-drill does not meet the English/language arts credit graduation requirements.

Introduction Middle School FACS High School FACS

Family and Consumer Sciences has roots in both academic and career/technical (vocational) education and easily reaches beyond the education system into the community as it focuses on the needs of individuals and families. Essential preparation for success of all students includes acquisition of problem-solving, decision-making, higher order thinking, communication, literacy, and numerical skills in applied contexts. As the future members and leaders of tomorrow's families, workplaces, and communities, students need to be able to act responsibly and productively, to synthesize knowledge from multiple sources, to work cooperatively, and to apply the highest standards in all aspects of their lives. Family and Consumer Sciences provides the bridges needed by all students to deal with major societal issues such as balancing work-and-family, managing finances, health care, child and elder care, family and community violence and crime, global economics and politics, and using technology. Family and Consumer Sciences is a catalyst to bring these issues into action-oriented, skill-building educational programs. The Indiana Family and Consumer Sciences Education program provides a platform for students to gain a strong foundation of the knowledge and skills needed for successfully living and working in the 21st century.

Family, Career & Community Leaders of America (FCCLA) is organized nationally and at state, district, and local levels. FCCLA is the official student organization for Family and Consumer Sciences Education in Indiana and across the country. The FCCLA organization helps students develop leadership and citizenship skills while synthesizing and applying Family and Consumer Sciences content and skills in family, workplace, and community settings. As a teaching/learning approach, FCCLA offer teacher-developed and student-tested strategies and materials that center the responsibility for achieving FACS standards on students through in-class and co-curricular chapter programs and projects.

Students in Indiana Middle Schools are expected to achieve, at the minimum, Academic Standards for the Family and Consumer Sciences Five Essential Units by the time they finish the 8th grade. Multiple FACS areas of study are expected to be integrated into the FACS program offered at each grade level (sixth, seventh, and eighth) as detailed in the FACS Five Essential Units Framework and Pacing Guide and the more comprehensive Middle School FACS Comprehensive/Enrichment Framework that details 13 units of study.

High school FACS is organized into a variety of semester-long and year-long courses. State-approved high school FACS courses and the curriculum framework for each course provide educators with guidelines for developing local FACS programs that focus on building strong and resilient individuals and families and helping students manage personal and family issues. Concepts, standards, and competencies in the FACS course frameworks were identified from a review of characteristics and needs of learners, the current vision and mission statements for FACS, the 2008 FACS National Standards, curriculum developments in other states, and examination of current FACS programs in Indiana. They provide the information and structure needed to develop a strong common identity among FACS programs across the state.

Introduction

In order to provide a quality education for every child in Indiana, it is important to provide for all aspects of human growth. The artistic, expressive, and cultural aspects of each child's intellectual, emotional, physical, and social development are vital components of this growth. Research involving the impact of arts education upon mental functions supports the convictions of many educators, parents, and business leaders that the fine arts are essential due to their ability to provide students with the means to think, feel, and understand the world around them in unique ways. Literacy in the arts strengthens a person's participation in society by enhancing problem solving and communication skills as well as fostering self-expression, aesthetic awareness, and multiple points of view. For these reasons, a curriculum in each of the fine arts should be available to all students so that they may become self-directed toward lifelong learning in the arts.

The purpose of each fine arts curriculum is to promote lifelong participation in the arts by developing skilled creators, performers, critics, listeners, and observers of the arts. Students can use the arts as a means of: (1) self-expression and communication, (2) development of critical thinking skills, (3) self-knowledge and understanding of the world around them, and, (4) increasing awareness of the artistic heritage of other cultures, as well as their own.

Students who are proficient in the fine arts grow in their ability to think and learn independently. Their view of the world expands as creative avenues to expression and understanding are developed. Ultimately, the entire community benefits through the creativity, vision, and empathy fostered in the fine arts.

In order for this to happen, students must be immersed in opportunities to learn about the arts, perform and create in one or more of the art forms, and learn to analyze and critique the arts. The goals for students in grades kindergarten through grade twelve (k-12) are to enable each student to do the following:

- develop one's artistic skills;
- become confident in one's abilities in the arts;
- become a creative problem solver;
- appreciate the value of the arts;
- communicate through the arts;
- communicate about the arts;
- exhibit knowledge of the historical and cultural diversity of the arts; and
- exhibit knowledge of criticism and aesthetics in the arts.

Introduction

The American Marketing Association defines marketing as “the process of planning and executing the conception, pricing, promotion, and distribution of ideas, goods, and services to create exchanges that satisfy individual and organizational objectives.”

Marketing involves, but is not limited to, such diverse activities as selling, marketing-information management, advertising, product design, distribution, pricing, purchasing, and financing. It is performed in profit and nonprofit businesses, organizations, and agencies of all types and sizes. Marketing is, therefore, a multi-faceted, critical business function that is interwoven with such social sciences as economics, psychology, and sociology. Its successful performance depends on the application of mathematics and communication skills and the use of critical thinking and problem solving.

Marketing is characterized as dynamic and changing. However, the pace at which marketing is changing has accelerated due to environmental shifts taking place in the business world: downsizing, outsourcing, mergers, international competition, world markets, and technological innovations.

CTE: Marketing, Management, and Entrepreneurship is a distinct discipline that integrates concepts and applications throughout the curriculum.

- Academic Concepts: The study of marketing incorporates academic understanding, including mathematics, reading, writing, speaking, sociology, psychology, and geography.
- Technology Applications: The successful implementation of marketing activities requires the ability to evaluate, select, and apply technology tools and resources.

Marketing employment opportunities are quite diverse and are integrated in all industries. They include a variety of marketing functions at various occupational levels. The levels of responsibility range from entry-level positions through business owner. Individuals employed in marketing positions may specialize in one or more of the marketing functions (i.e., distribution, financing, marketing-information management, pricing, promotion, product/service management, and selling), or they may require a broad understanding of all marketing functions as would be needed by a business owner or manager.

In today’s society, individuals face a competitive environment that demands creative, innovative solutions to new problems and new opportunities. Students must be prepared to understand the demands of others, analyze the fast-changing environment, and formulate responsive, rational, and proactive approaches to decision making.

Introduction

Indiana's Academic Standards for Science, adopted in 2000 by the State Board of Education, are based on the Benchmarks for Science Literacy, from the American Association for the Advancement of Science's Project 2061. They are presented by grade level from kindergarten through Grade 8 and by individual course for high school. Through Grade 8 the Standards are organized as six content strands: (1) The Nature and Science of Technology; (2) Scientific Thinking; (3) The Physical Setting; (4) The Living Environment; (5) The Mathematical World; (6) Common Themes. High school courses each have two standards: (1) Principles of each subject area and (2) Historical Perspectives.

Rules of the State Board of Education for each diploma are as follows:

General	Core 40	Academic Honors	Technical Honors
Four credits from more than one of the three major categories in Life Science, Physical Science, and Earth and Space Science.	Six credits in science: two credits in Biology I, two credits in Chemistry I, Physics I, or Integrated Chemistry-Physics, and two additional credits in Chemistry, Physics, Earth and Space Science, Advanced Biology, Advanced Chemistry, Advanced Physics, or Advanced Environmental Science.	The same course requirements as the Core 40 diploma, but students must earn a grade of "C" in order for a course to count towards this diploma. In addition, students must have a grade point average of "B" or above.
